Commemorating Martin Luther King Jr. Day 2024

Sacramento, CA – Growing up in the Bay Area, Martin Luther King Jr. Day was always synonymous with a day of service. Similar to many residents in my community, my family were intentional about serving others, especially on this day.

Dr. King's quote "life's most persistent and urgent question is what are you doing for others" has resonated with me throughout my life, but more so now as a judicial officer.

As a judge, I have been entrusted with this unique responsibility to serve this community in promoting justice, ensuring fairness and maintaining due process.

These fundamental values are consistent with Dr. King's legacy of service.

The Honorable Allison Williams was appointed to the Sacramento Superior Court bench by Governor Gavin Newsom on November 29, 2021.
